

ABCC MEDIA POLICY

Media attendance at ABCC events

The Australian British Chamber of Commerce welcomes media interest and attendance at events, subject to prior notification and acceptance by the ABCC.

The Chamber makes every effort to ensure media can attend and make use of information shared at the events. We are happy to provide access to splitter boxes or other AV infrastructure required where possible.

If media wish to attend an event on a complimentary basis, we will provide amenities where possible, but there is no obligation on the part of the Chamber to provide meals or other benefits unless a ticket is purchased in advance.

Please note that the Chamber reserves the right to restrict media access to any event. If access is permitted, we reserve the right to direct the conduct of the media during the event. For example, we prefer that photos be taken within the first five minutes of the presentation and then not again until the question-and-answer period commences. We reserve the right to ask media to cease any activity during an event (including requesting media to leave) if their actions are disruptive in any way.

The Chamber would appreciate acknowledgement in any content (such as news articles, TV or radio stories or online news) generated by the event.

To be notified about events in advance, please contact the relevant Chamber office below.

Media questions

It is at the discretion of the speakers to make time for media interviews before or after the event. Where possible, the Chamber will assist the media to determine if speakers will be available for interviews. Please consult the relevant Chamber office to facilitate any such interview ahead of time.

The Chamber will enable the media to engage in the question-and-answer sessions at our events unless requested to do otherwise by the speakers.
